CienciaSalud

Your professional experience, in an environment of science and collaboration.

Opening in November 2026 | Central Palma de Mallorca.

At CienciaSalud, we are preparing to open our new interdisciplinary centre for Health, Wellbeing and Sports Performance at carrer Font i Monteros 14, ground floor, 07003 Palma de Mallorca, very close to the Tax Office (Hacienda) and Plaça dels Patins.

Our project builds on a strong professional track record in scientific research, university education and applying knowledge to people's physical and mental wellbeing.

We are now taking the next step: bringing together professionals who share our philosophy and want to develop their practice in an environment of collaboration, learning and growth.

We welcome people with curiosity, initiative and a sense of purpose, who want to grow professionally and contribute to a project where knowledge is shared, science advances and people truly matter.

We welcome self-employed graduates in Physical Activity and Sport Sciences, Nutrition, Physiotherapy and Psychology, as well as professionals in Functional and Sports Rehabilitation who wish to develop their practice and grow within an interdisciplinary project.

CienciaSalud

What do we offer?

- An interdisciplinary professional environment:

  develop your practice in an atmosphere of collaboration, knowledge exchange and shared opportunities across disciplines.

- Scientific research:

  opportunities to propose, design, lead and take part in research projects, including applications for competitive funding. An environment that supports your academic and scientific development, with scope to undertake master's dissertations, pursue doctoral research and contribute to scientific publications in collaboration with researchers and academic institutions.

- Education and teaching:

  opportunities to design and deliver courses, workshops and educational activities for professionals, patients, people involved in sport and the wider community.

- Social commitment:

  join initiatives that bring science closer to people and help improve their health, functional capacity, independence and wellbeing.

- Professional development:

  become part of CienciaSalud's scientific, educational and people-centred environment. A place to grow professionally, share experiences, develop new initiatives and contribute to a shared project.

- Independence and flexibility:

  professional consulting rooms, internet access, the option of a CienciaSalud appointment schedule and space bookings for full morning or afternoon blocks.

Our proposal offers a flexible collaboration model, transparent financial terms, shared visibility and joint professional development initiatives. Get in touch!

Who are we looking for?

We welcome self-employed professionals who wish to develop their practice and grow within a shared interdisciplinary project in Nutrition, Physiotherapy, Psychology and Coaching, as well as graduates in Physical Activity and Sport Sciences and professionals in Functional and Sports Rehabilitation.

We particularly value professional rigour, initiative, scientific curiosity, the ability to collaborate and a caring approach to people.

Would you like to join CienciaSalud?

Discover our project at www.cienciasalud.es and learn about our philosophy, our spaces and our approach to science, health and interdisciplinary practice.

If you share our vision and feel inspired to be part of this professional, scientific and supportive environment, we would love to meet you, exchange ideas and explore how we can grow together.

Send us your CV and tell us who you are, what you love about your profession and what you could bring to CienciaSalud.

Email: info@cienciasalud.es

Website: www.cienciasalud.es

CIENCIASALUD

A space to develop your practice. A team to share knowledge. A project to grow together.